Introductory Remarks

Jonathan Kanter was confirmed on November 17, 2021, as Assistant Attorney General for the Antitrust Division. Throughout his career, Mr. Kanter has been a leading advocate for strong and meaningful antitrust enforcement and competition policy. Mr. Kanter has been a partner in the Washington, D.C. offices of two national law firms and was the founder of a boutique antitrust law firm dedicated to promoting antitrust enforcement. Mr. Kanter began his career as an attorney for the Federal Trade Commission's Bureau of Competition. He earned his J.D. from Washington University in St. Louis and his B.A. from State University of New York at Albany.

Speakers

Joe Thon started working for St Joe Regional Medical Center in July of 2005. He is a registered nurse for the hospital. Mr. Thon has critical care experience and post anesthesia care experience.

Kelley Tyler is a trauma care registered nurse at Mission Hospital in Asheville, North Carolina where she has worked since 1985, and is a proud member of the National Nurses Organizing Committee, an affiliate of National Nurses United. Her passion for patient advocacy and her solidarity with her fellow RNs compelled her to take an instrumental role in the successful union organizing drive at Mission Hospital in 2020 following the purchase of her hospital by HCA Healthcare Inc., the largest hospital corporation in the world, the previous year. Ms. Tyler is proud of her role on the NNOC/NNU negotiation team that led Mission RNs to win the first-ever RN union contract in a private sector hospital in the state of North Carolina.

Dr. Michael Shapiro is a Harvard-trained General Surgeon with over 30 years of expertise in Kidney and Pancreas transplantation, and the surgery of patients with renal failure and diabetes. He is an active attending at University Hospital in Newark, NJ, a Professor of Surgery at Rutgers New Jersey Medical School, and an Associate Scholar in the Center for Population-Level Bioethics.

Dr. Mitchell Louis Judge Li is a practicing board certified emergency physician and founder of Take Medicine Back, an advocacy organization to take medicine back from corporate control and restore the patient-physician relationship. Dr. Li earned his medical degree from the University of Massachusetts Medical School in 2013 and completed his emergency medicine residency at St. John Hospital in Detroit, MI in 2017. He currently lives in a tiny home in the mountains of Western North Carolina pursuing a simplified life that allows him to speak and advocate freely.

Madelaine Feldman MD is a rheumatologist in private practice with The Rheumatology Group in New Orleans, LA, and President of the Coalition of State Rheumatology Organizations. She lectures extensively on the drug supply channel, particularly the effect that formulary construction and utilization management tools have on pricing and access to drugs. Dr. Feldman is honored to be the recipient of the American College of Rheumatology's inaugural Innovation in Clinical Care award in 2021, and in addition to receiving the Distinguished Service Award for Tulane Medical School, she is the past Chair of the Alliance for Safe Biologic Medicines and past member of the American College of Rheumatology insurance subcommittee.

Ty Beringer is a Type 1 Diabetic and insulin accessibility advocate based in Northwest Arkansas. His experiences with insulin rationing, medical supply denial, and emergency care have informed his views on the issues surrounding diabetes care in the United States.
